How To Help Your Pet's Health

Veterinary nutritionist for Wellness® pet food recommends pet owners read the label for the following:

- The first ingredients listed should be quality lean meat proteins;
- Wholesome grains, fruits & vegetables should also be found at the top of the ingredient list;
- No meat by-products or fillers such as wheat, wheat gluten, corn or soy;

Look for the designation "natural" diet to ensure the absence of artificial colors, flavors & preservatives.

Perfect Planting

Saturday, January 24th
Seed Starting • 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Take the guesswork out of watering.

Violets need to stay evenly moist at all times. Self watering violet pots allow your plant to evenly & slowly drink through the unglazed bottom half of the top pot.

The Dirt About Dirt

All soils are not created equal! Potting mix is specially blended to hold the correct amount of moisture in a container. Gardening soils & topsoils are meant to be mixed at least 50/50 with the native soil to maximize the performance of plants in outdoor planting beds.

Baker Creek Heirloom Seeds

They offer a large variety of open-pollinated seeds: pure, natural & non-GMO!

(genetically modified organisms)

Go Green

With EarthBox® it's easy to be perfect.

A gardening system so advanced, it lets your plants "decide for themselves" how much water & fertilizer they need.

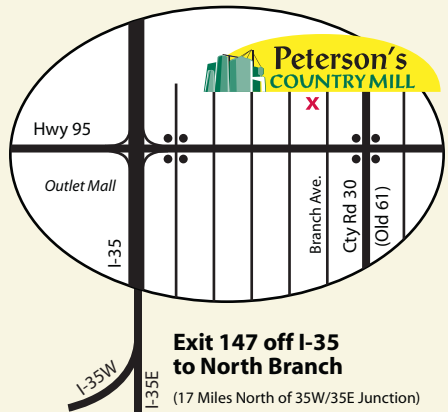

Tomato Basics

Tomatoes come in two types: determinate or indeterminate. Determinate tomatoes are shrub-like. They're best for people who can tomatoes, or prefer many tomatoes at once. Indeterminate tomatoes are vine-like & produce more foliage; they produce fewer tomatoes at once, but will continue producing right up until the first frost.

You'll also need to know how many days it will take your chosen variety of tomato plant to reach maturity. For the most effective use of your EarthBox, choose one early variety & one late variety.
