Wildlife Management & Food Plots

Saturday, June 26th from 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Deer & wildlife food plots are a fun, rewarding project for the whole family.

It's not too late to get started on spring planting & it is the perfect time to start planning fall food plots. One of the most important steps in starting a food plot is preparing the soil. That starts with a soil test. A soil test will help you plan which nutrients will make your food plot even healthier.

Knowing what to feed is only part of the solution. Knowing when to feed is the other half of the puzzle. It is essential that you feed all year. It can mean the difference between a big buck & a Monster buck.

Rejuvenating Old Food Plots or Starting New • 9 a.m.
Soil Preparation & Managing the Nutrients in the Soil • 10 a.m.

Soil Test Special
Only $15 June 25th - 27th
Ezs test value of $17.45

Peterson's Country Mill has the perfect mix to plant for fall & winter food plots.

Deer Food Plot Mix – is an annual blend of brassica along with some white clover and buckwheat that will feed the deer from late fall thru the winter months.

Buck Forage Oats – “Oats have always been the preferred winter forage for whitetails. Buck Forage stands up to colder temperatures.”
Dr. James C. Kroll, “Dr. Deer”

Farmscapes Brassica Blend – An annual forage that produce large leaves that attract deer. Brassicas are a good choice for your less than perfect areas.
